

Nutramigen Information for Medical Providers

Nutramigen is a medically necessary formula for infants and children who have allergies to cow milk protein and to other proteins. There are two different types of Nutramigen.

Nutramigen

- Made in concentrate (liquid) form only.
- Prescribed for food allergies including cow's milk allergies and soy protein allergies.
- Nutramigen is provided by WIC.
- Medi-Cal will NOT approve concentrated Nutramigen. Therefore, your patient will receive this formula through WIC.

Please write Nutramigen concentrate or Nutramigen on the RX or the Pediatric Referral Form (PRF), and include the appropriate diagnosis.

Nutramigen with Probiotic LGG

- Made in powder form only.
- Label looks almost the same as Nutramigen concentrate but includes the words “with Probiotic LGG”; has probiotics to help support digestive health.
- Prescribed for management of food allergies including cow's milk allergies.
- Nutramigen with Probiotic LGG is provided by WIC for the 1st month with a valid prescription or Pediatric Referral.
 - Medi-Cal Fee for Service and Medi-Cal Managed Care cover Nutramigen with Probiotic LGG. The provider will submit an authorization request to the patient's managed care plan.

To process this request, WIC requires a signed Pediatric Referral Form (PRF) stating Nutramigen with Probiotic LGG, and an appropriate diagnosis.

Please note: If you want your patient to have Nutramigen powder, please write Nutramigen with Probiotic LGG on the Pediatric Referral Form. Otherwise, WIC is required to provide Nutramigen concentrate.
